

Eleanor Newell

14th February to 13th March 2011

Eleanor Newell is a highly acclaimed maker of elegant and refined Raku ceramics. Eleanor's ceramics are classical in style, whilst distinctively recognisable and unique. She has gained a reputation for developing a wide palette of subtle hues and tones gently inter-playing with the crackle effects of Raku, as well as vibrant lustres and matt glazes, all achieved through blending naturally occurring minerals.

Eleanor Newell will be at 45 Southside® on the 13th of February 2011 from 3pm for the opening view. Please come along to meet the artist. All are welcome.

INVITATION

Sunday 13th February 2011, 3-5 pm,
All are welcome.

Upcoming exhibitions:

- Kati Vamos (smoke-fired burnished earthenware) 27th March 2011
- Jude Freeman (mosaics) 21st April 2011

40RTY5IVE
SOUTHSIDE

45 Southside Street
Plymouth, Barbican PL1 2LD
Telephone 01752 224974
e-mail arts@45southside.co.uk
www.45southside.co.uk

Open 7 days
a week from 10 am to 5:30 pm.