

Spot-on!

Now based in the South West, Lincoln Kirby-Bell's love for ceramics began at the age of four on his parents' farm in his native Australia when his father would bring him clay from the farm dam and he would model farm animals with it. Coming from Australia, you might be forgiven for thinking you see Aboriginal influences in his work, but the basic elements of the decoration he employs can be found in all ancient civilisations – spots, spirals, circles, linear patterns and stripes.

He combines these with a distinctive choice of colour and raised decoration technique to create colourful and tactile pieces, which while witty and fun are designed with attention to detail and functionality. Very collectable!

'Spot-on!': 23 May – 14 June.
45 Southside, Plymouth

READER OFFER

Pebbles decorated in Lincoln's signature style will be placed around Plymouth and south-east Devon for the duration of the exhibition. If you spot one, bring it along to the gallery for a 10% discount on his ceramics.